Scope and Content:	The collection contains documentation of the school's history and activities, including administrative materials and a large number of photographs and videocassettes. Older photographs show students and staff as well as the school grounds. More recent photos include group portraits and depictions of student activities in the classroom and outdoors. More thorough descriptions of the pictures can be found in the folder-level information below. The VHS tapes include school programs, many of which are undated. There are also two reel-to-reel films from around 1950.
Restrictions:	The collection is open for research. Preservation for 16mm film reels is pending; they are not currently available.
	A Durham County school located on Quail Roost Road in Bahama, NC, Mangum School hosted grades one

Mangum Elementary School Records

Biographical/Historical Note:	Mangum School hosted grades one through twelve when it opened in 1939. It was named in memory of Willie Person Mangum, a native of the Bahama area and a United States senator for 17 years. The school campus had four buildings: two main buildings, a home economics building for high school students, and a home for the principal and visiting teachers called the teacherage (demolished the 1970s). When Northern High School was built in 1955 the high school grades transferred there, leaving grades one through eight at Mangum. In 1960 one of the main school buildings was struck by lightning during a storm and burned down. As that building had housed the cafeteria, students ate their meals in the home economics building until a replacement combined cafeteria/auditorium was completed the following year. In 1979, the school became a primary center with kindergarten and first grade; in 1983, a second grade was added and additions and renovations to the school were finished. In 1997 the third grade was opened, followed by fourth and fifth grades in 2001, completing the school's current K-5 organization. In 2009 the remaining original buildings were torn down and a new building for arts, media, and upper grades was constructed.
Condition Notes:	The two 16mm films are in poor condition, displaying signs of "vinegar syndrome."
